They are breaking up the violent protestors using smoke bombs and water canons. They are dividing the rioters and using the necessary force needed to arrest and detain. There is no carnage and real violence against the French protestors, unlike some populist media and Russia Today would like you to think of. There are violent protestors and a violent reaction by the French police forces. They have reached the media expiration date a while ago now. They started almost 1 year ago, and actually they remained prominent in the media an exceptionally long time. They are old news now, and the media prefer to focus on other things. Now it's just a few idiots making a bit of noise with no aim. No-one is interested, no-one cares. 44 views · View 1 Upvoter.

Tweet. Fox News makes a point of distinguishing between its outspokenly conservative opinion hosts and its news division, which it touts for its neutral journalism sensibilities. But while images of peaceful protesters being forced from Lafayette Square ahead of Trump's photo op at St. John's church filled newscasts on other channels, Fox largely played it down. Some outlets focused on violence aimed at police during the unrest. Breitbart.com, a pro-Trump site once described as "a platform for the alt-right" by Stephen K. Bannon, its former chairman and Trump's former campaign chairman, highlighted such violence in several cities. Its lead headline Tuesday morning was "Las Vegas: Rioter shoots officer in the head from behind."

The studies of violence in mass media analyzes the degree of correlation between themes of violence in media sources (particularly violence in video games, television and films) with real-world aggression and violence over time. Many social scientists support the correlation. However, some scholars argue that media research has methodological problems and that findings are exaggerated. (Ferguson & Kilburn, 2009; Freedman, 2002; Pinker 2002; Savage, 2004). Media violence is the movie industry making movies that show extreme and unnecessary violence. Media violence is the news channel broadcasting all the murders, kidnappings, and robberies that occurred that day at a time that allows children to view them. Problems and effects of Mass Media. Now I will discuss those problems and their effects on society.Â The way violence is portrayed is a problem and the amount of violent scenes in television should be looked at. â€œThe average prime-time show has five violent acts per hour.â€ â€œCartoons have an alarming average of twenty-five violent acts per hour.â€ It is also said that by the time children have reached adolescence, they have seen more than eight thousand killings and over one hundred thousand other acts of violence. 2 Who effects ?
