PUBLICATIONS—BOOKS

THUNDER IN THE MOUNTAINS: CHIEF JOSEPH, OLIVER OTIS HOWARD, AND THE NEZ PERCE WAR (W.W. Norton, April 2017; paperback edition, April 2018; large print, April 2019). Examining Reconstruction’s aftermath through the clash between O.O. Howard, who pivoted from championing African American liberty and equality as commissioner of the Freedmen’s Bureau to enforcing reservation policies for Native Americans in the Northwest, and Chief Joseph, leader of a small band of Nez Perce Indians in Northeast Oregon, who developed liberty- and equality-based arguments for keeping his traditional land and emerged as a leading dissenter in post-Reconstruction America. Praised as “intimate, propulsive and ultimately heartbreaking . . . a compassionate military history and a shrewd examination of how cultural legends are created” by the Chicago Tribune, “a brisk narrative” with “complex and compelling” characters by the New York Times Book Review, “magnificent and tragic” by the Christian Science Monitor, “brilliant” by True West Magazine. Starred advance reviews from Kirkus Reviews, Booklist, and Library Journal; Amazon.com Best of April in History and Biography/Memoir. Featured on Weekend All Things Considered and Travel with Rick Steves on NPR. Named a Montana Book Award Honor Book and a finalist for the Southern Book Award. Listed as one of the best books of 2017 by the Christian Science Monitor, Booklist, and True West Magazine.

THE INVISIBLE LINE: THREE AMERICAN FAMILIES AND THE SECRET JOURNEY FROM BLACK TO WHITE (Penguin Press, 2011; in paperback as THE INVISIBLE LINE: A SECRET HISTORY OF RACE IN AMERICA). Winner of the 2012 J. Anthony Lukas Book Prize for excellence in non-fiction (awarded by the Columbia Journalism School and the Nieman Foundation for Journalism at Harvard). Co-winner of the Law & Society Association's 2012 James Willard Hurst Prize for best book in sociolegal history. Winner of the 2012 William Nelson Cromwell Book Prize, awarded by the American Society for Legal History. Chronicling the evolution of laws and ideologies of race in the United States through the histories of three families whose racial identities shifted from African American to white from the 18th to the 20th centuries. Acclaimed as "an astonishingly detailed rendering of the variety and complexity of racial experience" by the New York Times Book Review, "a powerful evocation of the peril and insecurity that blacks faced both before and after the Civil War" by the New Yorker, "not only a work of serious scholarship based on exhaustive archival research but an immensely satisfying read" by the Boston Globe, "extraordinary" and "engaging" by the Times Literary Supplement, "authoritative and elegantly written" by the New York Review of Books, and a "must read" by the Financial Times and San Francisco Chronicle. Selected as one of the Chicago Tribune's Favorite Books of 2011; Booklist Editor's Choice for 2011.
