The global awards program honors excellence in promoting diversity and inclusion within the gaming industry. Rachel Barber Wins Technical Services Industry Leader Award. In April, Providence Business News (PBN) in Rhode Island announced that Rachel Barber, IGT Senior Vice President and Chief Technology Officer, has been named Industry Business Leader in the Technical Services category of the 2019 PBN Business Women Awards. Wondering where those awards, honors, and accomplishments fit in your resume? We have the tips you need to ensure that your achievements are properly documents to maximize your chances of landing an interview and a great job!Â But how can they do that without the relevant work experience that others may possess? To overcome that challenge, they need to demonstrate that they have real achievements and ambition. For over 50 years, the ANS Honors and Awards Program has honored outstanding achievements and meritorious service in the various fields served by our Society. Through our program, ANS is proud to recognize the exceptional accomplishments of nuclear science and technology professionals. Awards range from elevation of a member to Fellow grade to named awards honoring highly respected individuals in their field.
